

Sending high speed data signals up our power lines sound like a very bad idea. I suspect I will be able to hear it in every radio and TV in my house. If you pass this I want some serious, stiff rules about interference. Rules with some teeth. Not suggestions or guidelines like rules for computer RFI. I can hear my computer and both of my neighbors computers on my radio. This sounds much worse.